

BFK pan conveyors HEKO runways and rails

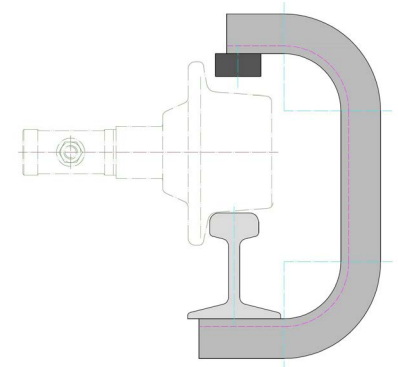

HEKO manufactures in its own production facilities complete runways or runway sections according to your specifications and requirements. Both European and other standards are possible.

The runway consists of the rails as well as an upper roller guidance in the curved area. This prevents the conveying sections from lifting up and ensures reliable safety during operation.

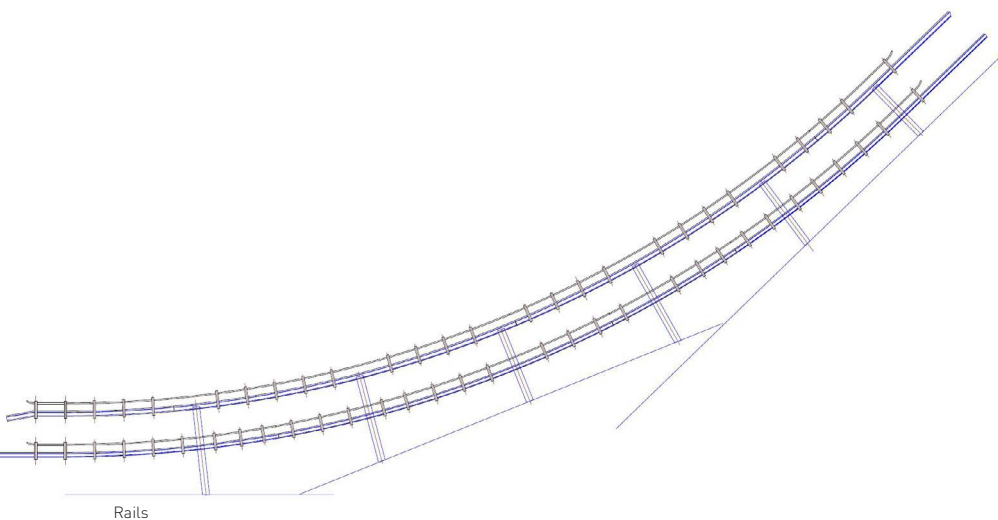

Type S14 - S30 rails are used as HEKO standard. However, also other commercially available rails of other types / standards can be used. If necessary HEKO also supplies corresponding rail connectors and expansion connections.
